AINO is a modern funk style house with compact design. Its carefully considered plan makes living in this house a pleasant experience and maximizes its usable floor area yet leaves the household versatile enough not to feel dull. Although AINO is a compact house, it fits a full size carport from where you have straight access to the house, which is really convenient in case of a rainy day or if you want to bring something to the house that neighbours shouldn't see.

The living room and kitchen are combined to maximize the potential of both rooms. By simple rearrangement of furniture, the room can host a big formal dinner party or a regular house party with grilling on terrace. Sauna is placed into a separate part of the house, which gives an opportunity to have a sauna party without disturbing other family members or guests.

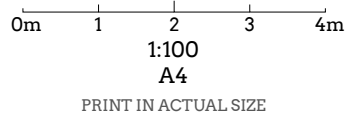

Hosting guests in this house is a breeze. The living room is also openable to the large terrace by a sliding door or an optional folding door which can be fully folded, so you'll have an open space between the inside and outside.

Large storages fit all garden and recreational inventory comfortably.
